HON. SAM RANDALL, a formidable candidate for speaker of the next house of representatives, has just returned to Washington from a southern tour. He expressed himself satisfied at the tone and feeling of the people of our section, and confidently predicts a Democratic victory in 1876. He relies greatly upon the ex-rebels in the house and has cut out some investigating work that will make the Rads squirm. THE SAD STORY CONTINUED. London, May 9.—Evening.—Forty-three-urvivors of the crew and passen-gers of the steamer Schiller have arrivreduced at nine o'clock Friday night; at ten o'clock the same night the ship struck the ledge and a great panic pre-vailed. Captain Thomas is highly praised for his conduct during the terrible scenes which followed. Two boats were filled with men who refused to come out, the captain fired his revolver over their head to drive them out, and then the ship was washed with her broad-side to the sea, and all on board these boats perished. The tackle at the stern was released too soon, leaving the boats then got away; one a life-boat, was so badly injured that she sunk and eleven of the people on board were rescued by other boats. The fog lifted an hour after the steamer struck, and the lights were plainly visible. Two of the boats on the steamer were crushed by the falling funnel. Rockets and guns ter was crowded with passengers and the crew all night. The mainmast fell at half-past seven o'clock this morning, and, being of iron, sunk with all who had taken refuge on it. The total number of lives lost is THREE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN.

The Herald's correspondents succeeded in interviewing Mr. Paleman, the second officer of the Schiller, and Henry Stern and Mr. Frahm, first-class passengers. From this narrative we gather that the voyage was moderately good until May 4th. The last three days it was impossible to take observations; the ship was out of her course half a mile at the time of the catastrophe. Captain Thomas was on deck night and day for four enfog, and the sails were taken in, the engines put on half soced and the fog bells bumps the steamer settled down. The steamer Pomerania sailed from Plymouth during the night for Hamburg without taking any survivors of the Schiller. The statements made by the officers of the Schiller add nothing to the particulars already telegraphed. It was reported yesterday that there were one hundred and three women on board. The survivors were taken to-day from Penzance to Plymouth, whence they will be sent forward to Hamburg, where the greatest excitement prevails. It is asserted that life-saving belts were issued to the women; it is certain that most of the passengers found none. An order was given that the first boat should take the women and children, but this boat was capsized. Paleman says seven boats were saunched and only two lived. The others were staved and swamped immediately. The cries for he'p lasted until three o'clock, and THE LAST VOICE HEARD was that of a little girl in the cabin. The sea is too heavy to-day for boats to approach the wreck of the steamship Schiller, and no cargo of any importance has been received. Fisherman report the Schiller as firmly settled on a rock, and will not full off into deep water. Although it is difficult to approach the wreck now there will be many days in summer when salvage may be effected. There was a life belt in every one of the Schiller's berths when the disaster occurred. Captain Thomas is-sued orders that one should be fastened ed at Pessace, of these thirty-three have gone to Plymouth, while the remaining ten are too ill to be moved.
